教學目標與內容	This course is designed for the sophomores of Applied Foreign Language Department to develop their English listening ability. The textbook used in this course, Active Listening: Expanding Understanding Through Content, is trying to help students learn to listen to English more effectively. As the name implies, the course recognizes that listening is a very active process. Students bring knowledge to the class and perform a wide variety of interactive tasks. Throughout the book, the students focus on content rather than on language itself. That means that instead of learning about English, students will be learning information in English.
實施方法	●講解法。●實作法 ●演習法。
