教學目標與內容	This class is designed to develop students ability to understand and effectively communicate in spoken English. It aims to build upon the basic skills of speaking and listening comprehension students already posses and help them master an upper intermediate command of spoken English. Students will perform a variety of exercises designed to help develop their general ability to communicate in English. These exercises have been developed specifically for Taiwanese students, seeking to meet their specific needs and engage their particular interests. They include activities that will enhance the specific skills of listening comprehension, pronunciation and effective spoken communication. In addition these activities will also include a strong element of functional grammar and vocabulary building.
